

Brink of Extinction

The year is 2110. The earth is no longer habitable for human beings. The oceans are gone, the sky is red and irradiated, and the last vestiges of human civilization are located within the confines of massive barrier cities. For a century, mankind has been at war with a parasitic alien life form known as the Daemon. They came from the stars, a simple and seemingly harmless organism. However, man learned quickly that these new life forms adapted quickly the perfect weapon that combined its own biology with whatever world it had invaded. Soon, the whole planet was overrun all government, most of the world's great cities and civilization are gone. Now, a century later, the human race is on the brink of extinction. With only one hope left, the fate of the future is placed on the shoulders of one small team, the Valkyries. They have the key to a new future, but standing before them is the entire might of the Daemon horde.
